Experience

Laura Newman Eckstein Mapping, Freelance Cartographer, Haverford, PA August 2014-Present
Independent mapping company. Create interactive maps and analyze spatial data for a wide variety of audiences including professors, authors, and bloggers.

Summer Research Fellowship, Research at the American Jewish Archives, Cincinnati, OH May-August 2015
Awarded a fellowship through Haverford College's John B. Hurford '60 Center for the Arts and Humanities to examine Jewish life in the Mississippi Delta before and during the Civil War. Worked extensively with primary sources at the archive and visualized economic and familial networks of Jews in the Delta using GIS techniques.

Tri-College Digital Humanities Fellow, Researcher at Viral Texts Project, Northeastern University, Boston, MA May-August 2014
Used mapping skills to create visualizations of the spread of 19th century newspapers and magazines. Specifically examined transportation networks during this era in order to understand their connection to the reprinting of periodicals.

Food of Incarceration: A New Way of Life for Japanese Americans, Researcher and Creator, Portland, OR May-August 2013
Researched the Japanese diets and habits surrounding eating during WWII and how they were affected by the War Relocation Centers. Analyzed how these changes affected social structure and societal values.

Activities

ETHOS, Member, Haverford, PA April 2013-May 2016
Collaborated with the Dining Center to make Haverford meal plan offerings more sustainable. Entered invoice data and performed a cost analysis on the purchase of food using the Real Food Calculator. Helped to pass a plenary resolution that received overwhelming support from the student body detailing sustainable food policy on campus. Worked to make possible and ultimately organized a signing of a campus commitment to "real food" by the president of Haverford College in April of 2016.

Food Systems Working Group, Co-chair and Founding Member, Haverford, PA October 2015-May 2016
Co-drafted a multi-year action plan to ensure Haverford College will meet its goal of 20% "Real Food" by 2020. Worked with other students, staff, professors, and the administration to implement the multi-year action plan. Organized and planned each meeting to fit within a narrative that focused on creating a more just food system on campus.
